ACEA NETWORKING DIRECTORY

Introduction

New apostolic ministry training schools have specific purposes for which God has called them. Traditional accreditation has generally done more to hinder than help these schools achieve their purposes. Many schools have felt the need for more flexibility to be all that God wanted them to be. Most do not want complete independence, but interdependence of some kind. They want to know what others are doing, and they want others to know what they are doing.

Thus, C. Peter Wagner formed the ACEA, not as a new form of accreditation but as a means for schools to receive ongoing peer-level evaluation, mutual accountability, and networking while maintaining the integrity of their individual callings from God.

The descriptions contained in this directory come from ACEA enrollment forms and self-study reports submitted by each of the schools. Some ACEA member schools are not represented here, because ACEA received no information from them.

We hope this networking directory will help many ACEA schools to get to know each other. This directory contains profiles of most ACEA members through April 2007.

Take the risk. Pick up the phone and call one of your partners in ministry.

- 1983: The institution was incorporated as Christian Life School of Theology (CLST).
- 1984: The first classes were held, Dr. Cottle being the only faculty member at that time. Gradually, other teachers joined the faculty as the demand for courses grew.
- 1992: The Video Division and the Home Study Division were begun. These divisions enabled students to complete courses through the use of video tape or cassette tape instruction.
- 1993 - Dr. Cottle founded Beacon Theological Seminary in Columbus, Georgia
- 1997 - BTS became authorized to grant degrees by the Georgia Nonpublic Post secondary Education Commission as Beacon College.
- 2000 - Beacon College was nationally accredited by TRACS as Beacon College and Graduate School.
- 2003 - BCGS became Beacon University.
- 2004: CLST became a part of Beacon University as the Beacon Institute of Ministry (BIM). BIM has become the world leader in church-based adult continuing religion education.
- 2005: BIM has 250—learning centers in North America and centers in 22 other nations.

- To provide a very practical professional orientation designed to assist the student in acquiring the characteristics and skills that will prepare them for places of leadership in the church.
- To provide educational excellence which encourages the student to develop the skills of research and discriminating thinking into a lifelong process.
- To provide a spiritual environment in which the student will have an opportunity to develop the entire person as a man or woman of God.
- To provide a missionary and evangelistic emphasis which will help the student to cultivate a Christ-like spirit of concern for those who do not know Christ, and a spirit of commitment to exert every effort to make Christ known to others.

Adding additional Bible courses, such as 1) Pentateuch 2) Historical Books, Major and Minor Prophets and Writings, NT - 1) Gospels 2) Pauline Epistles 3) Pastoral Epistles. Further, we would strengthen our practicum program, emphasizing cross-cultural ministry experience, either international or urban, and further strengthen our Business program.
